The successful candidate in this role will use EL Education's Core Practices as the classroom's foundation to ensure remarkable academic achievement, character development, and community involvement for all students. At EMSA, students and teachers will reach their highest potential through active exploratory learning and social responsibility in which:

- Individuals of all backgrounds and abilities are welcome
- Children's natural curiosity is nurtured
- Students become leaders of their own learning
- Teachers and students hold high standards
- Critical thinking is central to math and science
- Students develop skills to be responsible individuals

An EMSA Educator will:

- Operate with the understanding: Diversity is a fact, Inclusion is a behavior, Equity is the outcome
- Work collaboratively with all members of the learning community to build relational trust and foster a growth mindset for all through modeling by taking professional risks, owning mistakes, and being metacognitive about their own growth and revision
- Model EMSA's habits of scholarship in word and action and effectively build a positive classroom culture that promotes self-discipline
- Assume primary responsibility for increasing student achievement (i.e. mastery of knowledge and skills, character, and high quality work) by designing and implementing cross-curricular units of study that integrate literacy instruction and utilize active pedagogy
- Create a collaborative student-centered classroom that thrives on differentiated instruction to increase student growth and enhance school culture
- Challenge, engage inspire and empower all students with the Wow & Wonder of EL Education

- Design lesson plans that allow for flexible, uninterrupted blocks of time that foster deep learning, content-based literacy, project-based learning, fieldwork, and student presentations for authentic audiences
- Engage in professional learning and help to implement a progressive, bold educational approach in fostering EL Education's Core Practices to inspire student success
- Practice reflective and synthesizing professional practices to allow for a deeper understanding to manifest for implementation with the highest levels of fidelity

An Ideal candidate is someone who:

- Has demonstrated strong classroom and time management skills
- Is committed to meeting the needs of every child in a diverse population and has demonstrated success working with low income and minority students
- Believes every child can learn and reach high levels of academic achievement
- Has a clear understanding of curriculum, instruction, assessment in child development, and the integration of and adherence to state standards
- Has a proven ability to work as a member of a team with a commitment to his/her own learning and professional development
- Has experience designing and implementing an effective and engaging literacy curriculum
- Has the capacity to teach mathematics and science using inquiry-based and hands-on methodology
- Believes children can make a significant contribution to the school, community, and the world
- Wants to be part of an organized, professional learning community

Qualifications Desired

- Communication and interpersonal skills to engage in a highly collaborative school environment
- Strong technology skills
- Fluent in Spanish and English
- Expertise in working with English Learners
- Expertise in working with low-income populations
